News from Monash University

> Pathway Certificate Courses into Health Science

Monash University offers two online certificate courses, for students who might like to try a short course before entering the bachelor's degree.

University Certificate in Mental Health – aimed at developing one's knowledge and skills in responding to mental health needs - from understanding mental illnesses, to different perspectives in mental health services, through to strategies for treatment and recovery. Students learn from world-recognised mental health researchers and practitioners with a curriculum shaped by their global expertise and industry experience in the mental health sector and includes contributions from those with lived experience in mental illness.

The course is delivered fully online, combining the flexibility required by working professionals.

This course can lead towards further study, with the opportunity to progress into the Bachelor of Health Sciences.

2. Undergraduate Certificate of Health Care Essentials – aimed at aiding students develop knowledge and skills for roles in the disability, respite and aged care sectors. Students gain up-to-date knowledge of patient care basics and patient safety, and they are able to choose from four electives: wound prevention and care, nutrition, rural health and mental health. The course has been developed by experienced health professionals, educators, and researchers.

With an Undergraduate Certificate of Health Care Essentials, students may be eligible to apply for the Bachelor of Health Sciences.

> Studying Engineering at Monash

Monash's undergraduate engineering courses are designed with choice and flexibility in mind, to optimise career prospects and encourage students to diversify their study options at Monash University.

Monash offers a range of single and double degrees with specialisations and minors in 19 traditional and emerging engineering fields.

Students are encouraged to browse Engineering at Monash and browse the useful links provided including a virtual tour of the engineering facilities.

Career in Air Conditioning Technology

According to the Career Cornerstone Centre, air conditioning engineering technologists work in the design, installation, and service of heating and air conditioning systems in residential and commercial buildings. They know how to select and maintain equipment that ensures building comfort.

According to the Good Universities Guide, there are a range of specialised roles in this field, such as –

Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Draftsperson

Refrigeration and air conditioning draftspersons design and produce working drawings of mechanical systems for refrigeration and air conditioning systems within a building project so that they can be manufactured, constructed, and installed. Apart from having an aptitude for problem-solving, good communication skills, and being able to work as part of a team, a particular interest must be enjoying technical and design activities.

• Automotive Air Conditioning Fitter

Automotive air conditioning fitters install and repair air conditioning units in various types of vehicles and machinery, such as cars, trucks, vans, and tractors. Successful fitters enjoy practical and manual activities, have good hand-eye coordination, an aptitude for mechanical work, are able to keep up to date with technological change, and have good problem-solving skills.

Refrigeration and Air Conditioning Mechanic

Refrigeration and air conditioning mechanics select components, assemble, install, test, fault-find, service and repair industrial, commercial, and domestic refrigeration and air conditioning systems in homes, shops, factories, office buildings, hospitals, supermarkets, and cold stores. Besides having an aptitude for problem-solving, good communication skills, and being able to work as part of a team, other important personal requirements of these specialised mechanics are being able to work with hand and power tools, enjoy and have an aptitude for technical work, and work patiently, systematically, and thoroughly.

Reach for the Stars with a Career in Sports Media

The Bachelor of Sports Media has been designed to nurture students that aspire to work in the sports media industry. The course has four streams: sport, media, journalism, and communications. Students will be equipped to work in a variety of roles with sports leagues and clubs, sports media organisations, media organisations and sports agencies.

The course offers significant applied learning opportunities where students function as consultants to sporting organisations developing the skills required by industry. The major studies on offer are in sports journalism, digital sport, media production, public relations, social media, sport sponsorship, sports broadcasting, sports marketing.

Students keen on studying Sports Media or Sports Business, might like to attend the Sport Open Day event where there will be discussion around Holmesglen's industry-connected sports degree courses. Attendees will be given an overview of courses (Sports Media and Sports Business) and pathway and career options. This presentation will be followed by a tour of the course facilities and give students the chance to chat one-on-one with teachers about their study goals.

Date: Thursday 30 March 2023

Time: 6.00pm - 7.00pm

Venue: Holmesglen Chadstone Campus, Batesford Road in Chadstone
