419 Squadron's

Information & enrolment Night

Friday the 6th of March, 2015

1845 Hours (6:45pm) – 2100 hours (9:00 pm)

110 Sobraon Street Shepparton (Somme Barracks)

If you are a Female or Male, aged between 13 and 17, you are invited to come to the information night being held by 419 Squadron. There you will find out about the Australian Air Force Cadets Organisation & how it can help you to become a Cadet.

The AAFC is a youth development organisation, which instils the skills of leadership, discipline and organisation in the next generation of citizens. Whilst also providing many facets that interest and strengthen the cadets involvement in many areas of the community.

If camping or aircraft are a hobby, then air force cadets provide ample opportunity for cadets to increase their bush survival skills, or to set them on their first few steps of becoming a fully licensed pilot.

The Australian Air Force Cadets also provides an exceptional education of the Royal Australian Air Force and other services, all of which is highly prized knowledge in each arm of the Australian Defence Force.

The AAFC is also not lacking in fun & excitement for those looking for it, as many activities, such a competitions, camps, social events, and even international exchanges are available to all members
