➤ GAME DESIGN PORTFOLIO ADVICE FROM AIE

One of the most common questions we get from people wanting to start our two year Game Design and Production program is; What do I need to put in my Game Design portfolio?

The answer is..... there are lots of things you could include. Did you ever have to create something for a woodworking class or create a process or instructions for people to follow? That can all count.

If you feel like you want to know if what you have is on the right track, contact your nearest campus and organize to come in and gain feedback on your current portfolio.

There's an example of how to put your portfolio together and some more great advice that's relevant for AIE and any other course where you need a portfolio to apply.

➤ AUSTRALIAN JOBS 2018

Australian Jobs is one of the country's foremost jobs publications. It provides an easy-to-read overview of industry and occupation trends in the labour market, and is designed to meet the needs of students, career advisers, people looking for work and those involved in the national employment service, jobactive.

This year's edition has identified four key trends:

- Labour market conditions are strong — employment is up by a robust 403,300 over the year to January 2018.
- Young people are benefiting from the strong labour market conditions — industries with large numbers of young workers include Retail Trade (around 386,000), Accommodation and Food Services (385,000) and Construction (175,000).
- Australia's industry structure is changing — today, more than three in every four Australian workers are employed in a service industry, with much of the growth driven by Health Care and Social Assistance.
- There are now more jobs for higher skilled workers — the majority of employment growth over the past five years has been in occupations that generally require post-school qualifications, and this trend is likely to continue.

The full report and a series of data snapshots is available on the Australian Jobs page.
