

CAREER PLANNING What's Next for Me?

National Careers Institute - Your Career

A wide range of resources from the National Careers Institute. If you are looking for your first job this is a great place to start, featuring career ideas, learning and training options, resume support and much more.

Responsible Service of Alcohol (RSA)

Completing a Responsible Service of Alcohol (RSA) program is a great first step for anyone interested in working in the hospitality or retail industries. RSA training is compulsory for anyone in Victoria serving liquor, such as workers at pubs, clubs, restaurants, bottle shops and supermarkets.

Construction Induction Training (White Card)

If you are thinking about starting a traineeship or apprenticeship a good first step can be completing Construction Induction Training, also known as the white card. Holding a valid White Card means that you have completed official, certified general construction induction training with a registered organisation within Australia.

Youth Central

Youth Central is a great resource for anyone studying or training. You can find information on apprenticeships and traineeships, as well as university and TAFE.

ACTU Worksite & Youth Central - Your Rights at Work

There are many rules put in place to protect you from exposure to harm or exploitation in the workplace, and the ACTU Worksite and Youth Central are great places to learn more about your rights as an employee.

NDIS and Employment

The NDIS has funding and support available to people with a disability who are beginning employment, such as transition services and support workers.

myfuture

myfuture provides resources to explore career pathways and tools to develop self-knowledge to help with career decision making. It is free for Victorian students to sign up and get access to career bullseyes, case studies, career quizzes, industry and course information, and much more.
