Updates from Monash University

Introducing the Arts/Criminology double degree, giving students the opportunity to take up the APAC accredited psychology major and access to the Global Immersion Guarantee, <https://bit.ly/2qNiQBw>

Students will develop expert knowledge about crime and the criminal justice system, and develop a global societal perspective with this double degree. Students could also consider natural pairings with criminology, such as, sociology, behavioural studies, gender studies, anthropology and philosophy. For information, contact Georgina Gibson at georgina.gibson@monash.edu

Free online mindfulness course: are you feeling stressed or overwhelmed? Distracted and finding it hard to concentrate? Procrastinating when you should be studying? Mindfulness might be the answer.

Mindfulness techniques can improve your communication skills, relationships and emotional health, end unproductive behaviour and improve your overall wellbeing. Monash is offering a free four-week online course with three hours study per week commencing 18 November. For information and to enrol into the course, go to <https://bit.ly/33lg1QT>

Parkville campus tours and career advice: If you are looking at studying pharmacy or pharmaceutical sciences at Monash, you are encouraged to tour the facilities at the Parkville campus, book a careers advice appointment or chat to a current student! Tours and chats are open 25 November to 20 December and resume 3 January. For information and to book, go to <https://bit.ly/2qLMffY>

Double your degree, double your career prospects: A double degree in nursing and midwifery gives you the skills to impact healthcare globally and work in diverse settings to provide care where it's needed most. Students get hands-on training in the new clinical learning environments at the Peninsula campus.

These labs are equipped with everything for nursing, birthing and postnatal care simulations - from manikins, to humidicribs and a resuscitaire - providing the closest thing to being on the ward (or in the birthing suite)! Find our more - <https://bit.ly/370tDsH>
