

Stage 3 Camp

Where to begin- I loved Camp. So many things happened like going to museums, parks and seeing animals and parliament.

Day 1: We went to Hyde Park Barracks and The Police and Justice Museum. At Hyde Park Barracks we learned about convicts' lives in the early settlement time. At the Police and Justice Museum we learned about bushrangers and saw some guns and weapons they used. We also got to see a courtroom and do a drama of a court session. At the end of the day we went to Tumbalong Park for afternoon tea and a play. There were a few giggles there. Then we all wanted to go to the cabins but the teachers took us to the PowerHouse Museum. We were all disappointed that we couldn't go to the wiggles section. We were so excited to go to the accommodation.

Day 2: Off we headed to Taronga zoo where we saw heaps of interesting and cool animals, but we were on a tight schedule so after a couple of hours we went to the State Parliament. At parliament we had a talk about parliament then we watched a section of question time. It was very funny. The way they were arguing was really funny. We played in the park and ate our lunch then we hopped in the bus and Glen (our bus driver) drove us to the place we would start the Walking Rocks Tour. The Rocks tour was a tour where a guide walked us around the older parts of Sydney. Once The Rocks tour was over we were all puffed and tired. We had the choice of driving to the end of the bridge or walking the bridge. Walking across the bridge was probably my favourite thing we did.

Day 3: We woke up early to pack up our stuff. Once everything was packed we drove to our last activity, which was visiting Ansto, a science place. We learnt about the OPAL pool reactor and saw how it works. After the Ansto we hopped on the bus and headed home. Camp was very fun and everyone had a good time.
