POLLUTION KEEPS GETTING DIRTIER AND DIRTIER

This is what a 'Nude' lunch box looks like

Recently the staff of Bendigo Violet Street Primary, school have realized that there has been a lot of outdoor trash around lately. Here's just a few of the trash appearing in the yard, lolly wrappers, chips packets, and much much more.

Research has proven that food wrapping affects a lot of things, such as overcrowded landfills, greenhouse gas emissions, and litter pollution both on land and in the ocean. Violet Street decided in about 2017 that wrapped food would not be permitted in school lunch boxes, and some kids are still doing it today. 'I think that its bad for the environment' claimed Ari Morgan who is very environmentally friendly. 'I have a lot of wrapped food at my house Braxtyn Mulcahy so it is hard to have all health food in my lunch box. He is concerned but his mum goes shopping. That t is why we all recommend that you stop having wrapped food .
