Workshops and Courses

NIE | Simulated UCAT Day Workshop, Online

Saturday 16 April 2022, 10:00 am - 5:30 pm

Online

If you are in Yrs. 10, 11, 12, or you may be older and considering sitting the UCAT in the future, then this program is for you. The Simulated UCAT Workshop program is ideal and often a necessary step towards effective and efficient preparation for the UCAT.

This event will be conducted by the National Institute of Education in partnership in partnership with UCAT Preparation Australia, and MICAS (Medical Interviews and Career Advice Services).

The workshop is primarily designed to cover fundamental techniques in navigating all five sections of the UCAT test and also for participants to gain a better understanding of their own level of preparedness for the test. Over the course of the years, the program has evolved into more comprehensive and holistic exercise, which not only achieves its primary goal, but it is also exposing students to a wealth of knowledge about all other aspects of the journey into a medical degree.

Careers & Jobs

High-End Resume Templates & Portfolios

In addition to the tonnes of free resume templates (see the Study Work Grow recommendations here), you can pay for someone to design a CV for you, or you could pay for apps and programs that will do an amazing job too.

Really motivated and want to make a great impression with your CV? Perhaps you want to get into the most highly sought after scholarships, courses or careers, and you really want to stand out from the competition. Then consider investing a bit of money on creating your resume.

Pebblepad is an award-winning portfolio and personal learning platform that allows you to collect, curate, communicate, and share all kinds of work, achievements and skills. They have lots of templates you can use.

If you're an artist, designer, or game developer for example, with a body of work to share, Pebblepad could be a great option to investigate.

It's popular at Universities, so if you decide to invest in an account then you won't be wasting money and may be able to continue using it whilst you're at Uni and into your career.

What's the downside? Well, unfortunately there is a cost involved, but it's really not that expensive.

Looking for other app inspiration? There are few listed here worth exploring too.

Further Learning

Introduction to Actuarial Science with ANU

You may have heard of actuarial science, or you might even know an actuary, but do you know what an actuary does? The actuarial profession is a very attractive option for students with a strong mathematical background, being both well remunerated and having an abundance of career path options.

During this online course, created by Associate Professor Adam Butt, you'll learn how actuaries use mathematical, statistical, economic and business knowledge to understand, quantify and manage financial risks. You'll experience 'hands-on' learning using Excel (or an equivalent spreadsheet tool) to project and investigate the financial condition of a company, choosing appropriate strategies for the company through the use of simulations. You'll also hear from a wide variety of actuaries about their careers.

The course is suitable for students in Years 11 and 12, is run completely online, and is totally free.

Find out more here: <https://www.anu.edu.au/study/events/introduction-to-actuarial-science>

UNSW GIE FEAS Program

The GIE FEAS Program is a new alternate pathway program for female-identifying high school students in Year 11 and 12 (school year 2022) who will be applying for an eligible engineering degree at UNSW Sydney and expecting an ATAR within the FEAS eligibility* range.

If you're a student who wants to make a difference in the world, has an interest in helping others and would love to learn how engineering can solve problems in disadvantaged communities, then this program is for you!

If you are a student in Years 7 to 10 (school year 2022), you can still register for the program however you will not be able to commence the program until you are in Year 11. You will be alerted by email when you become eligible for the program.

Please note you must be a member of the GIE Club to participate in the GIE FEAS Program.

**Most FEAS degrees require a minimum ATAR (+ UNSW ACCESS, if applicable) of 83.00.*

Find out more: <https://gieclubfeas.unsw.edu.au/>

Ocean Youth Program

Ocean Youth is about building tomorrow's leaders and change makers to conserve and protect our oceans. As part of the program you will gain skills and implement solutions to some of the big, hairy issues our oceans face, and influence others to do it too.

The face to face program is aimed at high school aged students and delivered over a calendar year in Sydney, Melbourne, the Sunshine Coast, and Tasmania. The program consists of interactive, immersive, and skills building activities. There is also an online program for those who can't attend the in-person program.

The cost of the face to face program varies as the program varies across locations. Access to the Ocean Youth online platform is free.

Find out more and sign up here: <https://www.oceanyouth.org/oy-program/>

Resources

Regional Scribes Program

Regional Arts Australia invites people aged 18-24 with an interest in storytelling and writing to submit an EOI to be part of Regional Scribes.

Regional Scribes is an opportunity for young people in any stage of their writing and storytelling journeys to overcome the vastness of space and isolation by coming together virtually to meet with like minded peers across the country.

Successful Regional Scribes participants will get to:

- Take part in regular monthly online meet-ups over 4 months (10 in total)
- Connect with peers in meaningful ways via phone and the internet
- Hear from guest speakers active in their storytelling/writing journey
- Receive $500 towards your own professional development
- Access materials to support their creative practice

Regional Scribes is limited to 20 participants, so submitting an EOI is not a guarantee of inclusion in the project. The good news is Regional Scribes will run twice! So keep an eye on Regional Arts Australia's website and social media and be sure to apply for the next round.

Expressions of interest close 28 March 2022.

Find out more: <https://regionalarts.com.au/programs/regional-scribes>

National Day of Action against Bullying and Violence 2022

Today the National Day of Action against Bullying and Violence \(NDA\) is celebrating 12 years of action, working towards finding workable solutions both in schools and communities to help prevent bullying.

The theme for this year is Kindness Culture – it starts with you. It's about promoting inclusion, respect and belonging for all students at all schools Australia wide.

Resources

If you or your school haven't already signed up, that's OK, you can still access the resources, find out more about this year's theme and do your bit to help be kind.

What you can do

There's a particular emphasis about being kind online this year. If you see or experience any kind of cyberbullying, please remember to report it, block it and be always be kind and supportive in your online interactions.

Whether you're a parent, teacher, student, or member of the broader community, everyone has a role to play for bullying prevention.

Get more information and help from <https://bullyingnoway.gov.au/preventing-bullying/national-day-of-action-against-bullying-and-violence>.

Job Spotlight

How to become a Meteorologist

Meteorologists are weather specialists, using science and algorithms to predict weather patterns and events. They track local weather, measuring things such as rain levels and wind, as well as larger weather events, such as heat waves and cyclones. They also provide advice and forecasting before and during natural disasters.

If you have a passion for science and maths, are a great problem solver, and want a job that can be unpredictable and varied, becoming a Meteorologist could be right up your alley.

About you:

- Excellent problem solver
- Analytical with great maths skills
- Great tech skills
- Adaptable and flexible
- Fantastic communicator
- Curious and inquisitive
- Can work in teams and alone

The job:

- Studying the physics and dynamics of the atmosphere
- Tracking developing weather systems and events
- Gathering data on weather conditions and making predictions
- Providing weather forecasts to the media and public
- Forecasting both short- and long- term weather patterns
- Deploying technology, such as radars and satellites, to obtain data
- Advising governments on disaster prevention and preparedness
- Researching larger climate events, such as climate change
- Studying old meteorological data to find trends and patterns

Lifestyle Impact: Low

- Part Time opportunities: Low – around 20% of Meteorologists work part-time (source: labourmarketinsights.gov.au).
- Average hours for full-time workers: 42 hours a week, which is average (source: labourmarketinsights.gov.au).
- Meteorologists' salary (average) $70,000* per year (source: seek.com.au). *Salaries vary depending on your skills and experience.
- Future career growth: Very strong (source: labourmarketinsights.gov.au).

- You will be doing most of your work indoors, in offices and on computers. There might be some opportunity to do field work.
- Around a third of workers reported that they regularly work overtime or extra hours (source: labourmarketinsights.gov.au). You might need to be doing work on-demand during natural disasters, no matter the time of day.

Meteorologists are most in demand in these locations:

This is a small occupation, with only around 680 people working as Meteorologists in Australia in 2016 (source: labourmarketinsights.gov.au). Demand for Meteorologists is highest in Victoria, Tasmania, the Northern Territory, and the ACT. Most Meteorologists work in the Professional, Scientific and Technical Services industry.

How to become a Meteorologist in Australia

To work as a Meteorologist, you will need at minimum an undergraduate qualification in Science, Physics, or Meteorology.

Step 1 – Complete Year 12 with a focus on English, Maths, and Physics.

Step 2 – Complete a relevant undergraduate degree. Some examples include:

- Bachelor of Science, majoring in Physics or Atmospheric Science
- Bachelor of Mathematics

Step 3 – Consider upskilling with a postgraduate qualification, such as a Graduate Diploma in Meteorology.

Step 4 – Find work as a Meteorologist.

Step 5 – Continue building on your skills throughout your career.

Find out more about alternative careers.

Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

What do Meteorologists do?

Meteorologists are responsible for predicting and tracking weather events and systems of all kinds, including rain and thunderstorms, cyclones, tornadoes, fires, extreme winds, and more.

What options are there for career progression?

You will probably start out as a Junior Meteorologist, working under the supervision and guidance of more experienced workers, before working your way up into senior roles. Eventually you might like to move into roles in research, or even education.

Do I need to go to university to become a Meteorologist?

Yes, you will most likely need a university-level qualification to find work as a Meteorologist in Australia.

Where do Meteorologists work?

Meteorologists can work in a variety of different settings, including for government agencies, not-for-profit companies, science and research labs, and even in some private settings. They can also work in more community-focused roles, educating the public on disaster preparedness.

What are 3 things I can do right now to help me become a Meteorologist?

If you're in high school and you'd like to find out if a career as a Meteorologist is right for you, here's a few things you could do right now:

1. Consider taking short courses and workshops in Meteorology, such as the Introduction to Meteorology from the BoM.
2. See if you can find work experience in a science- or weather-related setting. This will help you see if you might enjoy the work, and can help you start building important contacts for the future.
3. Talk to a Meteorologist to see what a day in their life is like. If you don't know anyone, see if you can watch videos or documentaries about a career in science or weather.
