Development and Parenting

The Photo Voice Project is a program run at Junction's Hackham Community Centre, in partnership with Woodcroft Heights Children's Centre, that blends photography and social action to raise community awareness around the impacts of Family and Domestic Violence.

Women who have lived experience of Family and Domestic Violence can learn photography skills and share their stories and imagery, whilst engaging with and encouraging the community to become more aware and get actively involved in advocacy and creating change around Domestic Violence.

Come and see the exhibition.

Morning Tea provided.
