Readily available and aggressively marketed online, exposure to hardcore pornography is now mainstream. Porn has become a default sex educator for many young people with serious implications for their capacity to negotiate free and full consent, for mutual respect, sexual health, and gender equality.

Maree Crabbe is the coordinator of the community education project “Reality & Risk: Pornography, Young People and Sexuality.” Maree is Co-Producer and Co-Director of the documentary films “Love and Sex in an Age of Pornography” broadcast on SBS in Australia as well as ten other countries, and “The Porn Factor” broadcast on SBS. She is also author of “In The Picture”, a whole-school resource to assist secondary schools address the influence of explicit sexual imagery. Maree’s articles on young people, sexuality and pornography have been published in online and print media.
