Inform & Empower
Cyber Safety Education

What did your child learn about at school?

There are some types of information we need to keep private online, such as our name, address, school, passwords photos .

If someone online asks us for any personal information, we need to block and report them and tell one of our trusted adults.

We don't share personal information because the internet can be accessed by everyone - and not everyone is a trusted person.

Some conversation starters:

- What are some things about ourselves we should never share with anyone online? Why not?

- What should we do if someone we don't know asks us for personal information, such as names, addresses or photos?

- Let's look at our usernames and passwords- are there any we might need to change to make private? What could we use instead?
