

Blonty Black learnt her lesson

This is a story about someone stupid and smart.

Let me introduce the characters Blonty Black and her light brown and white horse Rosie. She lives in Peppers Creek forest. Blonty Black is as stupid as a monkey. After all, she decided to chase a wild pig's piglets.

The protective mama turned around angrily and started chasing Blonty Black. Blonty Black knew she had to figure out a way out of this mess so she climbed the nearest tree. She climbed halfway up and then looked down searching for the pig. The aggressive pig was circling around the tree snorting and snuffling trying to knock the tree down. Luckily for Blonty Black the pig couldn't look up and eventually wandered away.

Blonty Black climbed down the tree and got on her horse Rosie. Rosie had to do something so she took her somewhere dark in Peppers Creek forest. Blonty Black asked nervously "What is this place Rosie?" Blonty Black was confused about where Rosie took her. Nobody knew where she was and she knew they were looking for her.

Blonty Black knew she had to do something Rosie knew she was trying to plan something to make her turn around. Rosie had found out that Blonty Black made a plan to turn her around Blonty Black said "Rosie there were carrots that way." Rosie loved the word carrots. Carrots were Rosie's favourite snack to eat after her daily rides with Blonty Black.

Rosie had fallen for Blonty's trick. Blonty Black realised Rosie had fallen for her trick Blonty Black said: yes she fell for it she found out that she got Rosie to anything with the word carrots.
