

Classroom Moments

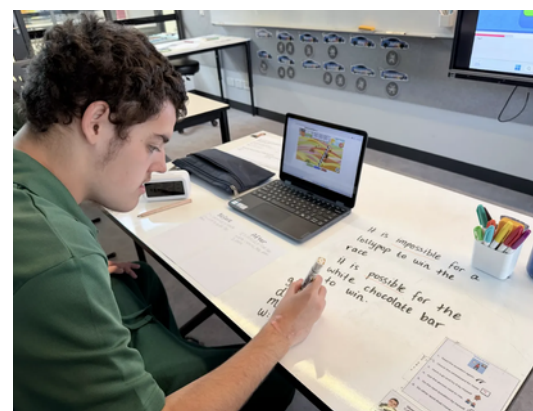

Teacher's Note

Literacy: Our focus for this term was digital literacy and exploring podcasts. We listened to various episodes and learned about their specific features before creating our own fidget toy review podcast starring our principal Karen Hunt.

Numeracy: We explored number the number concepts of place value, percentages and money with repetition through variation when we created our own table top games and designed menus for personalised video game characters.

Personal Development Skills: By focusing on community, on both a local and global scale, we explored our rights and responsibilities as community members and how we can create a sense of belonging.

Work Related Skills: Students analysed cover letters and learnt about their importance and role within the job application process. We discussed how to present relevant information in a professional way for potential future employers.
