INFINITE COURAGE

Cor Infinitus (Infinite Courage) is a national initiative providing dignity and respect to those that have served Australia and taken their own life, in order to give their families and loved ones that same dignity and respect as well as a tangible place of solemn reflection.

The memorial does not represent any individual person, era or circumstance. Rather, it is totally inclusive, anonymous and owned by all families of those lost.

The memorial's purpose is to help families mourn, grieve, hope and heal. It is not intended to glorify the person's final action. It is designed to play a part in suicide prevention by combatting the shame and stigma surrounding mental illness and suicide.

The messages that form part of the memorial are real words from real people impacted by suicide. They are designed to help someone step back from the edge, seek help and seek life.

Our aim is to create a memorial in every city and town around the country by 2025.

For more information, make a donation or purchase a lapel pin designed to promote conversations around mental illness and suicide please access the website at www.corinfinitus.org or email assistance@corinfinitus.org.
