BEHIND THE JOB: Community Mental Health Worker

What are their strengths?

- Communication and interpersonal skills
- Ability to provide emotional support and crisis intervention
- Problem-solving and advocacy skills
- Compassion and patience

What do they do?

Community Mental Health Workers support individuals experiencing mental health challenges by connecting them with resources, providing emotional support, and promoting mental well-being within their communities.

How do they get started?

A Certificate IV in Mental Health is a good starting point. A Bachelor's degree in Social Work, Psychology, or Community Services can open opportunities for more specialised roles.
