

ADVANCED
PSYCHOLOGY

FREE 1 hr Parent
Workshop

Does My Child Need an Assessment?

Understanding signs of ADHD, Autism, Anxiety, and Learning Difficulties

Many primary school children take time to settle, but sometimes, concerns persist. If you have been wondering whether your child's challenges are typical or worth exploring further, this free parent workshop will help you know what to look for and what to do next.

This workshop is for parents of primary school children who:

- Have ongoing worries about attention and focus
- Experiencing big emotions or increasing anxiety
- Have academic or learning difficulties
- Have social or communication differences
- Have concerns raised by school

A simple question many parents find helpful:

"Are things improving or quietly getting worse?"

In this free workshop, you will learn:

- Common signs of ADHD, autism, anxiety and learning difficulties
- How to identify when it might be a phase, and when it might be a possible concern
- When an assessment might be helpful (or when it might not be needed)
- Practical ways to support your child now
- What the assessment process involves

FREE Parent Workshop

17 March (7pm) or
18 March (9:30am)

Online via Zoom

Register via the enquiry box on our website

Presented by Denise Lim

Registered Psychologist
Master of Psychology (Educational and Developmental),
University of Melbourne

Why families choose Advanced Psychology

- Provides clear practical guidance
- Warm and experienced clinicians
- Evidence-based approach

Advanced Psychology
Suite 201, 22 St Kilda Road,
St Kilda 3182

03 7002 8006

admin@advancedpsychology.net

