

RECOMMENDED READS

GENERATION ONE

by Pittacus Lore

After the events of the Mogadorian war, kids around the world find they are getting legacies (special powers). Working with the UN, Nine forms an academy where kids with legacies can come to learn how to use their powers. Having just got their legacies, Taylor and Kopano head to the academy. Once familiar with the academy, Taylor and Kopano, along with their new friends decide to leave the academy, but in the process, Taylor gets kidnapped. Kopano and his friends set out to save her.

Generation One is a short sequel series to I Am Number Four. It is a quick read with lots of action, suspense and mysteries unraveling while more pop up. I rate it 5 out of 5.

Burhan Yr 7

THE YEAR OF MAPS

by Danielle Binks

Fred is an 11yr old girl whose mother recently died. She is still trying to heal from the loss of her Mum when she hears her stepfather is having a baby with his new girlfriend. She feels as if her family is being left behind. At the same time, refugees unexpectedly arrive in her town, further complicating the situation. Fred must explore new ways to navigate change as she works out her place in the world.

This story opens new perspectives of loss, love, and guidance as Fred struggles to adapt to such big and sudden changes.

Megan Yr 7

WORKHOUSE

by Pamela Oldfield

Edith is a well-off teenager who lives with her mother and cook. This story is written in the form of Edith's diary entries, as she becomes more involved in the workhouse, supporting the residents there. At first Edith is shocked by the conditions in the workhouse but soon sets to work improving what she can. She is especially drawn to Rosie, a rebellious, cheeky orphan who is always in the middle of any trouble. As Edith tries to help Rosie, she finds herself dragged into her schemes and involved in plans beyond her wildest dreams.

This story gives you insight into what life was like back in 1871. It describes the interesting life of Rosie and makes you really appreciate what you have.

Anneliese Yr 7