Career Exploration

Careers with STEM online magazines

The Careers with STEM website has recently released its 2024 Careers with STEM: Maths and Data and Careers with STEM: Science magazines. The magazines are packed full of short articles, information about courses, case studies and activities. You can download them or read them online.

Getting career ideas

Not sure what jobs might suit you? A career quiz could help you identify pathways that may suit you. A career quiz usually asks you questions about your interests, values and preferences. Some quizzes then give you a list of jobs that might suit you, that you can then investigate. There are many tests to choose from including:

- Online career quizzes - use your answers to match you to jobs that might suit you.
 - These quizzes are short and aim to open your mind to new career possibilities.
 - Some career quizzes give you a summary of your answers at the end. You can use the results to describe yourself (your strengths, interests and values) to employers in your applications and at interviews.
- Psychometric tests - measure how well you will suit a particular role. They test whether your personality and strengths match the traits needed in the job. Employers sometimes ask job seekers to complete a psychometric test as part of their recruitment process.
- Aptitude quizzes - can help you figure out if you have the literacy and numeracy skills required for a role.

Click here to find Job Jumpstart's career research tools that will help you get started.

Healthcare is everywhere!

Healthcare is Everywhere is an interactive online 'activity' that will help increase your awareness and knowledge of the healthcare system. It highlights the variety of career opportunities within the health industry. You can zoom in, scroll around and explore a hypothetical city and rural community, discover the range of health services, career opportunities and what they do at work. It's easy to use because all you need to do is click on the red markers to find out what health care jobs are located in that workplace. Give it a go!

How knowing your values can positively impact your career

Values shape the career choices we make, but what exactly are values and how can you identify the values that are important to you - those that will positively impact your career? You should know which workplace values are important to you and how they can shape the decisions you make.

Sabina Read identifies some common values to help you start thinking about what's important to you. They are listed below. Ask yourself which of these values are important to you and whether there are any you want to add.

- Adventure: To actively seek, create, or explore novel or stimulating experiences
- Assertiveness: To respectfully stand up for my rights and request what I want
- Authenticity: To be genuine, real - to be true to myself
- Caring: To be considerate towards myself, others, the environment
- Challenge: To keep encouraging myself to grow, learn, improve
- Cooperation: To be cooperative and collaborative with others
- Creativity: To be innovative
- Curiosity: To be open-minded and interested; to explore and discover
- Fairness: To be honest with myself and others
- Humour: To see and appreciate the funny side of life
- Independence: To be self-supportive, and choose my own way of doing things
- Open-mindedness: To see things through/from other's points of view, and weigh evidence fairly
- Power: To strongly influence or wield authority over others, e.g. taking charge, leading, organising
- Respect: To be thoughtful towards myself or others; to be polite and show positive regard
- Self-development: To keep growing, advancing or improving in knowledge, skills, character, or life experience
- Supportiveness: To be helpful, encouraging and available to myself or others
- Trust: To be loyal, faithful, sincere and reliable

Is growing plants on the moon a possibility?

The constant change to our climate is affecting the Earth and its inhabitants at a rapid rate. How can planting a seed on the moon help us develop more sustainable solutions? Hear from Lauren Fell, a research student at QUT who aims to answer these questions with the start-up experiment called 'Lunaria One'. Read more here.

Jobs that could be created by the use of AI

ABC New's Job Market has a video titled AI Raising Concerns that takes another look at the impact of AI in the workplace. They look into the fact that, despite the concerns, there's hope AI can help create jobs and spark a new field of employment. Click here to watch the short video.

Australian Skills Classification

The Australian Skills Classification helps define the skills that underpin jobs in Australia. The Classification identifies three types of skills for every occupation: specialist tasks, technology tools and core competencies. Similar specialist tasks are grouped together into skills clusters, which are further grouped into skills cluster families. You can explore the data by skills cluster or by occupation. Click here to find out more including the Downloads tab for resources such as the latest data set and reports providing detailed information on the Classification and the methodology. The Similar Occupations tab features an application of the Classification.

So, what are skills clusters?

According to the Australian Government Jobs and Skills Australian website, skills clusters show clusters of jobs requiring similar specialist tasks. Skills clusters are a new way of looking at the labour market showing how skills are related and connected to one another and are not just connected to a specific job. It provides you with a new way to explore skills transferability. Skills clusters do not take into account qualifications, registration or licensing required to undertake certain tasks. Click here to read about the 7 skill clusters as identified by Foundation for Young Australians.

The Key to Success: Why Soft Skills Matter

Soft skills are personal attributes that enable someone to interact effectively and harmoniously with other people. Unlike hard skills, which are about a person's skill set and ability to perform specific tasks, soft skills are interpersonal and broadly applicable in all aspects of life. These include:

- Communication: The ability to express oneself clearly and listen well.
- Teamwork: Working effectively with others.
- Problem-solving: Finding solutions to challenges.
- Time management: Efficiently managing one's time.
- Adaptability: Being able to adjust to new conditions.

Click here to read the LinkedIn's article that goes into more detail about why Soft Skills matter and the importance of advocating for Soft Skills Development

What do employers want?

No matter what the job, employers want people who have certain qualities. When you're applying for a job, showing that you have the following six qualities will help you stand out from the other job applicants. Youth Central outlines ways to show an employer that you have these qualities by using examples from your everyday life. Click here to read more about what employers want and how you can demonstrate that you:

- Have Experience
- Have Teamwork skills
- Are reliable
- Have initiative
- Have maturity
- Are willing to learn

Why is labour market information important?

To make good career decisions for the future, you need to have some idea of the employment prospects for the jobs you are interested in. The following resources can be helpful in this process:

- Labour Market Information Portal (LMIP) – Content on the LMIP is divided into three sections:
 - Regions
 - Industries
 - Occupations
- Jobs and Skills Australia website – The Skills Priority List webpage on this site identifies the areas of skill shortage nationally and by state/territory. It also provides skill shortage information by occupation.

- Jobs and Skills Australia - provides advice on Australia's labour market, including advice on workforce needs and priorities and current, emerging and future skills and training needs and priorities (including apprenticeships)
- Graduate Careers Australia – This website provides a range of graduate-related publications and research on topics such as salary trends and graduate employment opportunities.

Additional entry requirement for teaching courses

If Teaching is one of your QTAC preferences, you must meet academic and non-academic entry requirements. Academic entry requirements include subject prerequisites and an ATAR minimum selection threshold. You can find academic entry requirements for each course in Course Search (update your information once QTAC have uploaded their 2025 course information). If you do not submit the additional entry requirements you won't be considered for a place in teaching at any institution. Contact the relevant institution for more information regarding what qualifications and prerequisites are accepted for entry to initial teacher education courses. Do your preparation early so you are not rushed during the more stressful time later in the year.

Queensland ATAR (Australian Tertiary Admission Rank)

QTAC have an ATAR FAQs section on their website where they answer the most common questions that students and parents have. Click here to check them out (scroll down) remembering that as yet, they have not updated the page for 2024 Year 12 student ATAR registration.

What are Adjustment Factors?

Adjustment Factors can increase your chances of entry into university courses. If you are eligible for Adjustment Factors your position on the merit scale for entry into a course will be 'adjusted' to give you a new, more competitive score.

Universities award Adjustment Factors for a variety of reasons and programs, so you will have to enquire to every university you are interested in attending, to fully understand their eligibility requirements. The process for applying for 'Adjustment Factors' may vary, so it's important that you start your research now. Visit the QTAC website for information on the following Assistance schemes:

- Educational Access Scheme (EAS)
- Financial assistance
- Special admission schemes
- Year 12 subject scheme
- Access and equity schemes
- Rural Access scheme
- Regional preference schemes
- Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islander schemes
- Elite Athlete and Performer Scheme

Year 12: Time is passing quickly - time to start organising

Time is moving quickly and you should be starting to seriously research your course preferences for your QTAC application. If you haven't a clue where to start or aren't aware of your options, make an appointment with your school Guidance Officer/Counsellor ASAP. Some opportunities to assist you are:

- From May to September most of the institutions have open days where you can get information about courses and check out the campuses.
- You will receive the QTAC Guide in June/July or be able to access it online through the QTAC website. It contains information about courses you can apply for through QTAC as well as the application processes.
- 13 - 14 July 2024 - Tertiary Studies Expo (TSXPO) at the RICC Brisbane Showgrounds. Interstate universities will be represented at this expo.
- From August 2024, you can access a range of up-to-date information about the 2024/25 QTAC application and offer processes and the courses offered from the QTAC website.
- 24 & 25 May 2024 - Brisbane Careers and Employment Expo at the Brisbane Convention and Exhibition Centre. Also, careers' expos will be held in regional centres throughout Queensland.

Take advantage of all these opportunities to plan your immediate future. 30 September 2024 is the final date to apply for some courses through QTAC so, when you get your 2025 QTAC book, check it carefully for critical dates.

Certificates and qualifications

The Queensland Curriculum and Assessment Authority (QCAA) is the body that awards successful students with their Queensland Certificate of Education (QCE) or the Queensland Certificate of Individual Achievement (QCIA). Study Skills and Wellbeing

8 Things Taken for Granted in Year 12

Year 12 is a crazy time in every student's life. From the stress of exams, the mix of impatience and anxiety to graduate, and the bubbling social scene of 18ths, formals, and grad ceremonies, it really is one big whirlwind that can pick you up and spit you out, wondering what on earth just happened. There are times when you'll want to run away and start a new life overseas and times when you'll want to curl up in a ball and cry. But there are also once-in-a-lifetime experiences and opportunities that you'd be crazy to want to miss. Here are eight of them. Click here to read what the year 13 article has to say about:

- Freedom within responsibility
- Seeing your friends every day
- Having teachers who genuinely care
- Sneaky celebrations
- Productivity
- Formal celebrations
- The end of an exam block
- Schoolies

Provisional entry into Medicine update

If you're in your final year of high school (Queensland Year 12 or equivalent), you can apply for the Provisional Entry pathway. The minimum entry requirements for this pathway are:

- Queensland Year 12 English or equivalent
- an adjusted ATAR 95.00 or equivalent or higher
- a competitive University Clinical Aptitude Test for Australia and New Zealand \(UCAT ANZ\) aggregate score from the year you apply
- a multiple mini interview \(MMI\).

You'll need to sit the UCAT ANZ before you apply. The minimum required UCAT ANZ aggregate score depends on the performance of applicants and available places in the MD program. This score varies each year and can't be determined in advance. UCAT has a significant impact on whether you gain a place in the provisional entry program so you need to study, practice and ask for assistance when necessary.

After you apply, if you're eligible for the next stage, you'll be invited to an MMI. Meeting the minimum entry requirements does not guarantee admission.

Queensland Biology Winter School for Year 11 students

Live and breathe biology at the Queensland Biology Winter School.
