

Underwater Wonders: Meet the Scientists

Be a marine scientist for a day!

Join scientists from the DBCA Marine Science Program to identify and measure the diversity of invertebrates living in the intertidal reef at Marmion Marine Park. Using a field guide that you will get to keep, you will collect data through quadrat sampling and learn about the conservation management of these vulnerable coastal habitats.

We will finish with a beach clean-up and discussion about how pollution and plastics impact all marine animals from snails to turtles and whales.

Time: 10am-12pm
