

WHAT'S BEEN HAPPENING

Hello Families,

The children have shown a strong interest in knitting and have been busy creating their own arm warmers for winter. It has been wonderful to see their patience, concentration, and confidence grow as they learn new skills and support one another throughout the process.

The children have also developed a big interest in dragons, which has inspired many imaginative experiences within the program. Together, we have been creating dragon eggs and learning how to draw dragons.

As part of our STEM experiences, the children recently explored making "Unpoppable Bubbles." Through this activity, children experimented with different ingredients and tested how to make stronger bubbles. This hands-on experiment encouraged children to predict, problem-solve, observe, and investigate through science-based learning while having lots of fun.
