

All About Pandas

What are they?

Pandas belong in the bear family. They are mammals which means they eat meat. They feed their babies milk. And they are warm blooded.

What do they look like?

Pandas have black and white fur. They have sharp teeth and claws. They also have a fluffy body. Pandas have black fur around their eyes.

What do they eat?

Pandas eat bamboo, leaves, grass, fruit, eggs and insects. Bamboo is hard to digest.

Where do they live?

Pandas live in Asia and bamboo forests. They also live in the wild.

Interesting facts

Pandas are bears but they can't roar. They can be red like Red Pandas. They also can be 1.8 metres tall. New born babies are pink.

