

Understanding Controlling Behaviour in Relationships

An evening with Jess Hill

Controlling behaviour is a feature of many intimate relationships and a national crisis. But too often we ask the question 'why doesn't she leave?' instead of 'why does it happen?'

Free
Live Webinar
with Q&A

Thursday
2 December
7.00pm - 8.15pm

This webinar examines how some relationships are damaging and dangerous and how we can all help change the story.

Jess will share her extensive research and take you on a journey to better understand what we now know as 'coercive control', what it looks and feels like, and how a relationship can get like that.

Jess Hill is an acclaimed and multi-award winning Australian investigative journalist. Winner of the 2020 Stella Prize for her book 'See what you made me do' about domestic abuse in Australia and adapted into a three-part documentary series for SBS. Her podcast 'The Trap' has just been released.

Register for the event here

Jess's presentation will be viewable for 30 days after the event on Council websites. Participants will not be recorded.

This event is proudly brought to you by Knox City Council and supported by participating Councils and EDVOS with funding through Respect Victoria, partnering with DV Vic/DVRCV to deliver and support local engagement as a 16 Days of Activism grassroots initiative.

If you or someone you know requires family violence support, contact:

In an emergency call 000 police. 24/7 Support: Safe Steps - Family Violence Response Centre call 1800 015 188

We acknowledge the traditional owners and custodians of the land on which we work and meet, the People of the Kulin Nation.

