

Slam dunk the junk

One of the most important problems at Brighton Primary School is the amount of waste the school produces. This problem is so overwhelming.

It is time to change.

Time to slam dunk the junk.

I have quite a few ideas on the topic.

My first idea -

Feed the can man.

I'll explain my idea. 'Feed the can man' is an idea which makes it fun to throw your rubbish away. If we follow this plan we would get creative bins, such as a bin that looks like a monster, so when you throw away your trash you're feeding a monster.

My second idea is-

Bring back nude food.

Nude food is a great way to reward kids by giving a prize each week to the class that produces the least amount of rubbish. This practice gets Kids involved with saving the environment While also introducing a healthy competition.

Idea 3-

My final idea is similar to nude food, in that it rewards kids for bringing less rubbish in the first place. If we were to follow this idea then we would give rewards to kids who bring less than five pieces of rubbish a week. People who bring over 30 pieces of rubbish a week would have to pick up rubbish to keep the amount of rubbish down.

Thanks for taking the time to look at my opinion!
