How to keep children safe

for parents and carers

Easy English

This factsheet has some hard words.

The first time we write a hard word it is in blue.

We write what the hard word means.

What is this factsheet about?

This factsheet is about how to keep children safe.

It tells you what to do if you think a child is not safe.

This factsheet also tells you about child abuse. Child abuse means actions that hurt a child or teenager.

What is child abuse?

Child abuse can be

- physical – when someone hurts your body

- sexual – when someone does a sex act that is not ok with you

- emotional – when someone hurts you with words

- neglect – when someone does not look after you

- family violence – when someone in your family hurts your body.

Child abuse also includes grooming.

Grooming means an adult tries to be friends with a child or teenager for sex acts.

Child abuse is not ok.

How do I know if a child has been abused?

There are lots of signs you can look for.

For example, you should tell someone if you see a child

- is hurt on his or her body and can not explain why

- is friends with an adult and you think the friendship is not ok

- never wants to go with a person they know

- acts in a different way, for example sad or more sexual than normal for his or her age.

Your role

As a parent or carer your role is to keep children safe.

You must help a child if you suspect child abuse. Suspect means you think a child

- has been abused

or

- is at risk of abuse.

What should I do if I suspect my child has been abused?

You must tell the police now.

Call 000 or visit your local police station.

What should I do if I suspect another child has been abused?

You must tell Child Protection now.

Child Protection is part of the Department of Health and Human Services or DHHS.

The contact information is at the end of this factsheet.

Go to page 15.

Sexual abuse

If you think a child has been hurt by sexual abuse the law says you must tell the police and Child Protection now.

Sexual abuse means someone has hurt a child with a sex act.

A sex act does not have to be physical.

For example it can be when someone talks about sex in a way that is not ok.

You must tell the police and Child Protection even if you are not sure.

It is important to keep the child safe.

Tell the police and Child Protection again if

- you think nothing has happened

and

- the child is still at risk of abuse.

The information you give helps to keep the child safe.

What if someone at school suspects my child has been abused?

The school must tell Child Protection.

The school might also tell the police.

You might be contacted by

- the school

or

- Child Protection

or

- the police.

Your child will get help from the school.

For example

- emergency services if needed

- a counsellor.

A counsellor is a person who can talk to your child about abuse and help them.

How should I talk to my child about safety?

Tell your child that he or she has the right to feel safe

- at school

- at home

- in the community.

Tell your child that no one is allowed to

- hurt you with words or actions

- make you feel scared

- touch you in places you do not want to be touched.

You should also say

- you must tell me if you do not feel safe
- you will not get into trouble if you tell an adult you trust
- an adult will listen and help.

Think about the age of your child when you talk about sex.

Tell your child he or she has body parts that are private.

Always use the right names for body parts.

How can I keep my child safe in the community?

You can

- make sure your child spends time in safe places with people you trust

- check that staff and volunteers who spend time with your child have a Working with Children Check

- go to the Victorian Government Better Health Channel website for more information.
