Raising happy and resilient children

Tuesday 8 May, 7.30pm to 9.00pm

Launching our parenting series is one of Australia's most renowned adolescent and child psychologists, Dr Michael Carr-Gregg.

An author and broadcast specialist in parenting, children and adolescents, Dr Carr-Gregg will explore the ten most important things you should tell your children to build happiness and resilience.

Dr Carr-Gregg said the journey from childhood to young adulthood had become much harder to navigate.

"When identity and sense of self is at its most fragile, young people today face more potential rejection thanks to the pressure of social media," he said. "Parents need the skills, knowledge and strategies to help promote resilience in our children."

COST: $20 per person/$10 concession (ticket costs subsidised by Manningham Council).
