

Bucks Wild Adventure

Wild Buckem Hawk is old; he takes daily walks down to Peppers Creeks and does gold panning, while talking to a turtle named Jeff. Wild Buckem Hawk lives in a small house in the middle of Rockley. He has been living there for 60 years. He moved there when he was seven with his parents. He usually has a cup of tea with a few biscuits before he starts his walk. Each walk is about 2.7 kms away from his small little humpy to Peppers Creek.

But one day something feels a little off Jeff the turtle isn't there and the sky is black. He suddenly realizes that there's a MASSIVE wildfire he turns, slowly realizing that he's trapped he calls triple zero in a panicked voice "Th..there's a mass...massive wild..fire and I'M TRAPPED. SEND HELP." About 40 minutes later the firefighters arrive with fire trucks. The wildfire is in uproar with flames bursting into the sky, trees falling relentlessly. And there's old buck stuck in the middle of all of this. The fire is slowly closing in. Helicopters and jets flying around trying to put out this massive fire.

Seven Hours later the fire has had a bit of time to cool down but still hot coals and trees still falling not as relentlessly tho. Slowly the fire stops and old Buckem was able to get out but, with major burns. Buck is glad he's able to get out alive. But Jeff the turtle is still somewhere. Luckily tho Jeff pops his head out from the water and sees Buck he is also very happy, he flips his little flippers trying to get to Buck but both alive with a tale to tell to their grandchildren.

A few months later Wild Buckem Hawk goes home healthy and a big smile on his face and is still able to continue to have a cup of tea with a few biscuits wondering if it was a miracle that he survived. His grandchildren visit Peppers Creek seeing if they can help the terrain in any way they can to heal from the fire. After Peppers Creek was fixed and back to its old self, Buckem Hawk can continue taking his daily walks and continue to visit Jeff the turtle, his little side buddy.
