There are only a small number of students that we have to report on and parents to communicate with 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Transient student population Intermittent student attendance No documented whole-school approach to assessment & feedback The best reporting is face-to-face chats about the students – not grades and data Much of the formal data that is expected is not connected to what we teach, it is not easy to collect and it doesn't directly inform our teaching 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> Implement daily debrief process to review student learning/behaviour Develop whole-school processes to track 'fine grain' data at individual level Our principal has skills A profile of our students and their learning that can 'move with the student' and can be accessed online 'Start small and build from there' – attendance, behaviour & learning behaviours... lifting expectations Opportunities to provide regular feedback to students
