

PARTICIPATE

Volunteer with the 2026 Blue Mountains Sustainability Festival

Help bring sustainability to life in the heart of the Blue Mountains

Saturday 26 September 2026, 10.00am–4.00pm | Katoomba Civic Centre

The Blue Mountains Sustainability Festival is a joyful community day celebrating practical action, local creativity and sustainable living. We are inviting friendly, reliable volunteers to help create a welcoming, well-organised festival experience for visitors, stallholders, speakers, performers and community groups.

If you care about community, climate action, local resilience or simply making great events happen, we would love you to join the volunteer team.

Why volunteer?

- Meet like-minded people who care about the Blue Mountains and a more sustainable future.
- Support a free, community-focused festival with talks, workshops, markets, entertainment and stalls.
- Build event, communication and teamwork skills in a supportive environment.
- Choose a role that suits your interests, confidence and availability.
- Be part of a positive day that helps people discover practical ways to live more sustainably.

Volunteer roles available

There are many ways to help before and during the festival. Roles may include:

- Festival marshals: welcome visitors, answer questions and help direct people around the venue.
- Information booth volunteers: hand out programs, provide directions and support visitor enquiries.
- Stage and seminar room assistants: help performers, speakers and MCs keep the program running smoothly.
- Bump-in and bump-out assistants: support stallholders and community groups as they set up and pack down.
- Poster, signage and promotion helpers: distribute posters, place signs and help spread the word locally.
- Stalls support: assist stallholders and community groups with practical questions on the day.
- First aid support: volunteers with a current first aid certificate are especially welcome.

PARTICIPATE

What we are looking for

You do not need event experience to volunteer. We are looking for people who are friendly, calm, practical and willing to pitch in. Volunteers will be briefed before the festival and supported by the festival coordinator and assistant coordinator on the day.

Whether you can help for a few hours, assist with set-up or stay for the full day, your contribution will make a real difference.

Ready to help?

Join the volunteer team and help make the Blue Mountains Sustainability Festival a welcoming, inspiring and well-run community celebration.

To express your interest, contact the festival team at www.bmsf.au and click on Get Involved or email us at BMSustain@gmail.com.

Small actions, shared together, can create lasting change.
