

Student Wellbeing & Engagement Pulse FAQs

1 What is it?

Pulse is a tool for measuring the week-to-week wellbeing and engagement of all our students. It tracks your wellbeing as an individual so that the school can respond if needed. It also tracks your engagement with the school so the school can make changes if necessary.

2 Why are we doing it?

Using Pulse will enable us to step in and help when needed, as well as get useful insight so that we can improve how we deliver your education.

3 How does it work?

Once a week, you will be prompted by email to complete a "Check-in" on the app. The check-in consists of 5-6 questions.

4 How long does it take & how easy is it to use?

The entire process is very simple. On average, a check-in takes less than 60 seconds.

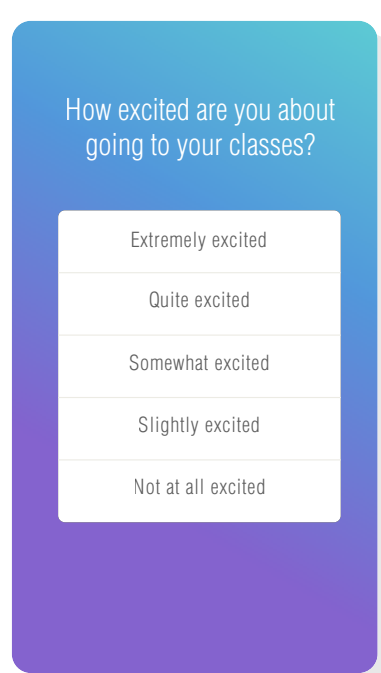

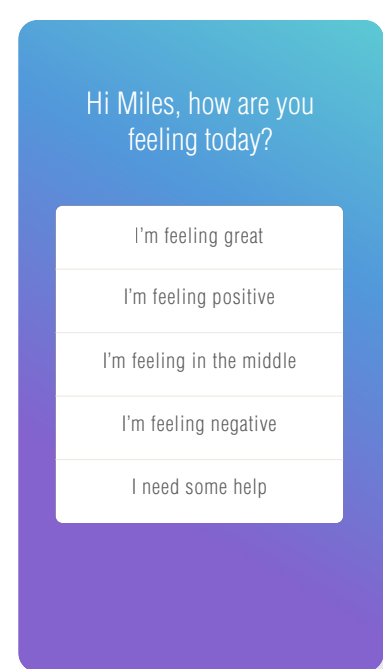

5 What does it mean for us?

It will give you a safe way to make your voice heard and give us your opinion on your experience at school.

6 What information are you collecting & who is going to see it?

We are collecting two kinds of information: Identified and Anonymous.

Identified: With each check-in, you will be asked "How are you feeling?". This question is asked every week and is "identified" ie. your identity will be attached to your response. This is important if you need to ask for help.

Anonymous: The remaining questions are all anonymous. The school will not be able to see your identity.

7 What happens if I need to ask for help?

When we set you up to use the app, you will be assigned one or more point(s) of contact within the school if you need assistance. You will be given the option to be contacted by the relevant staff member. You will also be given the option to speak to someone else if you are uncomfortable with the first suggestion.

8 Who is Educator Impact?

Educator Impact (EI) is an Australian business and is the creator of Pulse. Your school is using EI to help with your wellbeing. They have worked with hundreds of trusted educational institutions. If you would like more information about Educator Impact, please visit their website.