

Book week parade

Once a year during book week our school has a parade.

In the morning when you wake up,
you will get dressed in your costume not your school uniform.

Your costume will be either connected to the theme of book week, a character or something from a book.

When you get to school you will see all the children dressed up.

After the morning bell rings, you will go inside and complete your normal morning routine. Then you will come back outside to join the rest of the school sitting around the oval.

Each class will get a turn to walk around the inside of the oval in front of the other classes.

There may be music, noise and cheering from the crowd. But that's ok as everyone is excited and happy to see the costumes.

At the end of the parade you will follow your teacher back to class. And you get to stay in your costume all day!

Sometimes it maybe wet or raining and we can't have the parade outside. That's ok, as we can have it in the multi purpose room or the gym.

The book week parade is so much fun!

What do you think you might dress up as?

Draw or write some ideas below.
