

Book week 17-23 October - The Children's Book Council of Australia (CBCA) is a not for profit, volunteer run organisation which aims to engage the community with literature for young Australians. During CBCA Book Week, schools and libraries celebrate books and Australian children's authors and illustrators, and often hold parades with children dressed as their favourite book character. If you'd like to learn about the books shortlisted for this year's CBCA book of the year, head to their website www.cbca.org.au.

If you could dress up as your favourite book character, what would it be? Start a conversation or share your pics on our Facebook page - Communities for Children Onkaparinga

Roll-a-Story for writing inspiration - Every good book was written by someone who started their joy of writing somewhere. Budding storyteller? Or avid reader? Why not try writing your own story - with a throw of the dice to inspire you. There are many fun ideas online, this Roll-A-Story is a great place to start.
