

The Amazon Adventure

Written by Zach, MFP

The sun glimmering in the water of the rainforest blinds the eyes of animals lurking in the bushes close by. A chirping bird calmly fluttered over to the water's edge to take a sip of water. But little did he know that there was a crocodile silently gliding through the cold water to gobble up the chirping bird. The deadly predator leaped at the tiny little harmless bird but it speedily soared away in a split second into the tall oak trees above. He was livid as he missed his only meal on the wonderful day. He vanished into the dark river down to his cave to rage with peace until a nearby damaged human came flowing down gracefully in a coma. He leaped up above the water but blended in with the fast-flowing current. He snarled at the floating dinner but suddenly...SWOOSH! His dinner was gone. He screamed so loudly it could break windows (except there aren't any windows in the rainforest). SWISH SWASH THUMP THUMP THUMP! An old scallywag pirate came swinging by on a branch with the human in his mighty hands. He swang into a wrecked pirate ship stuck into trees. THUNK! Went the mighty pirate as he landed dead centre of the shipwreck. He laid down the human and a dash of blue light went into his soul and the human stood up.

"What am I doing here? Is this a dream?" Questioned the human.

"Oh, you were just in a coma then a crocodile nearly ate you but I saved you and now you're here. Oh, and what's your name?" said the pirate.

"Hmmmmmm let me think. I don't really know but I'll just call myself the best person in the entire world because I was in a coma and for short BOB." Bob said impressed with himself.

"What's yours?" Questioned Bob.

"Kaine" answered Kaine.

They plummeted out hunting for food with a bow and a shotgun. But they came across some crocodiles who surged towards them like an army of angry soldiers wanting revenge. Their ugly khaki coloured skin made them look dangerous. There were millions of them. Behind them were other raging animals.

"Why are they angry?" Asked Bob.

"I saved all the animals dying from predators but stole their meal". Answered the Kaine.

They charged towards them at exceptional speeds.

"I know a way out," screamed Kaine.

He jumped on a rock and a hole slid open underneath and they fell through. They were in a maze and only one hole was safe and the rest meant death. They had to choose wisely; they only had a 1 in 20 chances of living. They collected 20 sticks and threw one down each hole. The holes were either lava or safe. They could hear the burning of the sticks so they knew which one was safe. They crawled inside the hole and found the magical sword, armour and helmet.

"It has taken years for me to find it, I never knew where it was. I didn't go down any of the holes before because I didn't know where they lead" screamed Kaine in joy. Suddenly the raging animals came down and saw the holes and ran through all of them like they were charging bulls running through a red sheet. Kaine said to Bob "I am not the chosen one you are," explained Kaine. Bob slipped on the armour. He looked like a golden soldier ready for war. The animals were dying everywhere being burnt like marshmallows on a campfire. Bob ran out of the cave not caring what was in his way. He just smashed into the crocodiles and other army animals, knocking them down with ease. He swept through the animals like putting icing on a cake. Bob ran through with Kaine on his shoulders and ran out the cave entrance but there were animals surrounding them up and down left and right. The animals charged at them like the speed of light. Bob swirled his sword around like a whip but with a blade. Cutting some skin off the wrecked opponents. Bob caught the bomb before it hit him and then threw Kaine into the bush way past the animals. They all charged at him from all areas but when they all came close, he threw the bomb and hit all the animals but not Kaine. Everyone hit the ground and they all passed out. Kaine sped to Bob, fell to his knees and cried on his very body.

After 1 minute of pure darkness Bob took a breath and rose from the ground. He didn't know who he was or what he was but it didn't stop Kaine from loving him for who he was. Kaine gathered some wood from the shipwreck to make a real ship for them to sail back to an island with people on it. It took 2 days of traveling but they got to Madagascar with no harm done. Kaine ran onto a charcoal road. Kaine and Bob walked around for a bit until Kaine came across his mum and dad lurking around the corner of the street confused about what they were seeing. They saw their son. "It has been 4 months since you went missing. We thought we lost you" They screamed and cried.

"It has been so long since I have seen you and I am so relieved to see you", Kaine replied "And thank you Bob for helping me and getting us out of the forest. You are the real deal! You really saved me and you today."
